Kenney says council lax in store relocation

Anson, Hindon and Minden council should have done more to forestall the proposed relocation of the IGA store out of Minden's core area, according to a lengthy report presented at the council meeting September 13. The report was prepared by Councillor Gary Kenney who was highly critical of the council's lack of action in attempting to find alternative in-town locations for the grocery store.

Kenney was referring to a report that the grocery store plans to relocate to a piece of property on Highway 35 next to the Minden Marine building. According to the reports, the property, which is owned by Dean Elliott, would not have access from the highway, but would be reached by a service road off Main Street, next to the Case Realty office. Elliott received permission from the municipality to construct the road earlier this year and a confirmation that the township would accept the road when it was brought up to municipal standards.

While the owners of the IGA grocery store in Minden, Peter and David Dollo admit they have been considering the move to the new location, they have been cautious in confirming it. "We have considered a number of changes over the years," Pete Dollo commented on Tuesday. "We have wanted to expand in our present location and have looked at other property in the community. As far as I am concerned, nothing is final on this latest proposal. Until the papers are signed, nothing is definite."

Pete Dollo explained that an extensive engineering study of the present site indicated it would be extremely expensive to provide a suitable footing for a new building or expansion.

In his comments on Thursday, Councillor Kenney said it was probably too late for the municipality to have influence on the choice of location for the new store. "We should have been talking to them (owners of the IGA) five months ago when we first got wind of the possible change," he told the council. "It is not a matter of interfering with the operational decisions of private business, but deciding to what extent municipal government should interest itself in the future of its business community," he told the council.

Official plan

Kenney noted that the council had been working on the terms of the municipality's official plan and that the first draft of the document had identified Bobcaygeon Road and Main Street as the centre of commercial development in the village with property adjacent to Highway 35 being used for businesses serving through traffic. He suggested that the move to the new location by the grocery store was not consistent with the ideas expressed in the official plan document.

"Council's lack of response to even address the issue does not speak well of our intentions to administer the aims and objectives of such important planning decisions," his presentation to council stated.

He cited a number of instances in which the council had been made aware of the possibility of the move. He noted that as liaison councillor with the Minden BIA, he reported their concern over the possible relocation of the grocery store. He also noted that he had been approached by the owner of the property, Dean Elliott, in February seeking his opinion on the possibility of commercial development on the site. He said, "It was obvious to me at the time that other members of council had been approached in the same way, and that the first intent of the application was to provide a relocation site for the IGA."

Kenney said he had asked on a number of occasions if the matter had been discussed by the planning advisory committee. "I was told 'no' on all occasions," he said.

His criticism of the council's inaction included his own lack of participation in a committee of two members of the council.

Kenney noted that he and Reeve Lyle McKnight were members of the industrial development committee, but that they had not met once in 1983 or 1984. He said this was the case despite the need for identifying potential land to be zoned for light industrial expansion.

A major industry

The councillor likened the loss of the IGA in the downtown area, to the loss of a major industry in a city. He said the hundreds of shoppers attracted to the store provided a large potential market which other retailers could draw on.

IGA store owner Peter Dollo suggested that the new location would be even more effective in this regard since it would have visibility on the highway and shoppers would have to turn on to the Main Street leading into town before reaching the store.

In response to the comments of Councillor Kenney, Reeve Lyle McKnight said he agreed that the council should have taken a closer look at the proposed move when they first realized it was a possibility. However, he pointed out that he did not want to have a part in any legislation which would restrict the freedom of a business to operate within the guidelines established by the municipality.

The Reeve said he was (more on page 2)

Minden going to the dogs

Minden will be going to the dogs this winter with the blessing of the municipal council.

The Anson, Hindon and Minden council has endorsed a proposal which would see two days of dog sled racing held here in early January. The endorsement include the provision of $1500 to assist in the promotion and organization of the event.

The proposal was brought to the council table September 13 by Councillor

Gary Kenney. He was advancing an idea which has been under consideration for a number of years by Snowdon residents Val and Steve Loughheed.

The couple are avid participants in the sport of sled dog racing. "I've been trying for a number of years to interest someone in sponsoring such an event in the area," Val Loughheed commented earlier this week. "While people showed an interest in the idea, they weren't certain how to organize it, so I decided to take the idea into my own hands."

According to Val, they have the support of the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association, whose trails they will be using for the races. Volunteers have also come forward to assist in preparing for the event and on the days of the races.

Kenney told the council that the organizers would like to hold races this coming January. It would be an unsanctioned set of races to test the response, "and work the bugs out of the organizing." If the races prove to be a success, Kenney suggested they could become an annual event and be sanctioned by the body governing the sport.

He told council that the races would be of benefit to the community, attracting visitors and participants to the area, much in the same way the Heineken Yard has

Council briefs

Items from the September 13 meeting of the Anson, Hindon and Minden municipal council.

Fair charges

The council will investigate whether the Minden Agricultural Society should be charged for the use of the arena on Friday evening during the annual Fall Fair. The arena was used by the Kinsmen Club in conjunction with the Society, for a talent contest this year. A similar event was held last year on the Friday of the fair weekend.

According to Society president Wayne Cox, who attended the September 13 meeting, the money raised at the Friday night events had been used to finance the construction of the outdoor washrooms on the fairgrounds. He noted that the Kinsmen had donated the income from the first event to the construction costs and this year's event was held to help cover the cost over-run.

The Society has received a bill for the Friday night use of the building.

It was pointed out that the council has agreed to absorb the cost of the building rental for three community activities, the Fall Fair, the Kinsmen Winter Carnival and the Rotary Summer Carnival. The suggestion was made that the Friday night use of the arena was covered by that resolution.

Demolition derby

The council has agreed to allow the Minden Kinsmen Club to hold its annual demolition derby at the fairgrounds on the Thanksgiving weekend. The event will take place inside the fairgrounds fence, just north of the tennis courts.

The permission to hold the event was granted with the stipulation that the club ensure the grounds were cleaned after it is completed.

Ice racers

Permission was also granted to the ice racers to hold a series of races once again this winter on the track at the fairground.

The council added several provisos, including that no racing or warm-ups take place prior to noon on Sundays and that drivers do not use off-track facilities for racing.

done during the summer months. "This sort of activity matches the area in which we live," he pointed out, "and comes at a time of the year when we are attempting to attract visitors to the area."

The proposal received an enthusiastic endorsement from the other members of the council. They agreed to set aside the $1500 to assist with the details of the race, provided the organizers presented the council with a detailed plan outlining how the funds would be allocated.

Val Lougheed commented that they are planning sprint races for four and eight dog teams. The sprints would cover 4 and 8 miles. "In some communities, long distance races are held of up to 150 miles," she noted. She added that in communities which have held these events on a regular basis, large crowds of spectators attend.

She expects some 30 dog teams could take part in the races.

"The big attraction for these races comes at the start," Val explained. "The dogs are excited, there is a lot of barking and activity as the drivers harness their teams and they dash off down the course." The organizers are exploring the possibility of having the races start in the downtown area, but there could be problems with parking for the support vehicles. If a suitable location is not found, the races would likely start near the arena.

With the endorsement from the municipal council, Val and Steve have now started the process of contacting dog team owners to inform them of the event. An effort will also be made to raise additional funds to support the race.

The dates for the race have been set at January 12 and 13.

unaware of the sale of the property to Dollo's until about two weeks prior to the meeting. He said he was aware of a concern on the owners' part to expand the present store and the unfavourable engineering study. He said he had suggested at that time that they consider building a summer use only addition to the present store.

McKnight also noted that relocating the store to the proposed location would make it more difficult for those who walk to get their groceries, particularly seniors.

Councillor Pat Burk echoed the concerns about seniors having easy walking access to a grocery store.

Councillor Dave Stevens suggested the town was beginning to spread out, and this appeared to be the direction in which it was heading. He noted that the owners were unable to undertake any expansion in their present location.

At the end of the discussion on the matter, Kenney requested that the planning advisory committee prepare a report for council on when the Highway 35 property was reviewed by them and what provisions they recommend to forestall expansion of duplicate retail services adjacent to the grocery store. The motion to request the report was tabled and is expected to be dealt with at the next meeting of the council.

EVERYONE WELCOME

Weather watcher for 30 years honoured

Everyone talks about the weather, but no one does anything about it.

That old saying is basically true and because the weather affects everyone, it is the favourite subject of sidewalk chats and short encounters and provides a convenient opening line for conversations with strangers during social gatherings.

But there are people who although they may not try to change the weather, do in fact, do something about it.

Phil Graham of Minden has more than just a passing interest in the weather. For the past 36 years Phil has been a volunteer weather observer, meticulously recording information on the day to day weather conditions. At the end of each month, Phil mails a report on local weather conditions to a federal government agency where the information is inspected then stored.

When Phil began his work as a volunteer observer in October 1948, he mailed his Climatological Station Reports to the Meteorological division of the Department of Transport, of Canada. Today he submits his reports to Environment Canada. The information is inspected then stored on computer tape or microfilm.

On Tuesday, September 11, Phil was honoured by Environment Canada for providing over 30 years of continuous weather reporting. He was one of three volunteers in the province to receive the Morley K. Thomas Long Service Award.

The award was named in honour of Morley Thomas the former director of the Canadian Climate Centre and for many years Canada's representative at the United Nations World Meteorological Organization. He is also a volunteer "backyard" weather observer like Phil Graham and over 2000 other Canadians.

To prepare the reports for Environment Canada, Phil takes readings twice a day, from two thermometers that are kept in a wooden box in his yard.

The box is known as a Stevenson Screen, is louvred to allow air to pass through while protecting the thermometers from rain and snow and shielding them from direct sunshine.

One thermometer records the maximum temperature attained and the other indicates the minimum temperature. After the readings have been taken, the thermometers are reset.

Phil also measures and records any water that has collected in a rain gauge. In the winter, Phil measures the depth of freshly fallen snow. In addition to the numerical data, Phil makes notes on the nature of the weather conditions.

According to Environment Canada, the information on the weather that is provided by Phil and other volunteer observers is requested by planners in water resources, agriculture, transportation, energy, construction and many other social and economic sectors of Canadian life.

In recent years volunteers have been asked to provide particular information to assist in flood forecasting, to pinpoint the location of severe weather and to verify some weather forecasts.

Besides keeping an eye on the weather, Phil has for many years, been a keen observer of the Gull River that flows past his home in Minden and he keeps a daily record of water temperatures and levels. Needless to say the flooding that has occurred in Minden in recent years came as no surprise to Phil.

Information that he collects is published each month in The Times along with Phil's comments and comparisons with previous weather conditions.

It may have been a coincidence, but when Phil was presented with his award last Tuesday at his home, the cloud cover broke for a brief time and the sun shone through, reflecting off the plaque.

Minden resident Phil Graham accepts the Morley K. Thomas Long Service Award from Steven Hardaker of the Atmospheric Environment Service. Mr. Graham was honoured for over 30 years of continuous service as a volunteer weather watcher.

Council wants lower rate

Anson, Hindon and Minden municipal council does not feel it should pay more for fire protection services than it charges other municipalities. As a result, the council will be contacting the Township of Stanhope to request that proposed charges for the upcoming year be reduced to that level.

The request for the increase in fire protection charges was considered at the September 13 meeting of the Anson, Hindon and Minden council. The meeting was told that the Stanhope request was for an increase to $185 for the first hour and $90 for each subsequent hour that the fire department is working in the municipality.

The Minden council has an agreement with the Stanhope Fire Department to provide protection for the north end of Hindon Township, Pine Springs, and the northern portion of Minden Township, in the Carnarvon area. These arrangements have been made because the Stanhope brigade is closer to these areas than the fire station in Minden.

In addition to the hourly charges which apply only when a fire call is received, a $1000 stand-by fee is also charged on an annual basis.

Reeve Lyle McKnight suggested the township should ask Stanhope to reconsider the rates, in light of the fact that Minden charges less when selling protective services to Lutterworth and Snowdon Townships. These two municipalities pay $150 for the first hour and $75 for each additional hour plus the annual $1000 stand-by fee.

The matter will be returned to the Stanhope municipal council for further consideration.

Iris Eakins passes away

Business sense

How far should a municipal government intrude into the affairs of its citizens? That was the underlying question in the debate and report which was tabled at the September 13 meeting of the Anson, Hindon and Minden council regarding the proposed relocation of the IGA grocery store.

While we believe that a certain degree of regulation is needed to ensure orderly growth and development, we also think the free enterprise system reaches its fullest potential when the intrusion is kept to a minimum. In the matter before the council last Thursday, the proposed relocation of a grocery store from the edge of the downtown area to a piece of property adjacent to Highway 35, we believe the council should take a hands off approach. The proposed site, and it should be noted at this time that nothing is final in regard to the move, is properly zoned for the use it would be put to.

We also note that the present owners of the IGA store have done extensive and costly studies to determine if the present site was suitable for expansion. It is not, mainly because of soil conditions. Furthermore, there is a lack of suitable sites for a structure of that size elsewhere in the core area of the community.

There is merit in the present proposal in that it provides a highly visible location which will attract additional traffic off Highway 35. We suggest that once individuals have made the turn on to Main Street to reach the grocery store, they will continue through town to purchase other required items before continuing on their way.

While the proposed location may be a little more difficult to reach on foot, the extension of the sidewalks to the hospital will help ameliorate this situation. As well, the number of individuals affected in this way by the change, is limited.

The prime responsibility of a municipal council is to encourage growth and expansion not to stifle it. The best way it can do this is to ensure the bylaws of the municipality are adhered to and then allow the best interests of free enterprise carry the ball from there. The results will be the best for all concerned.

Editor's Note: This letter was intended for publication in last week's edition.

Editor:

In your March 28th edition, you made reference to the Haliburton County truck hiring policy. Because I own a school bus which works approximately four hours a day, nine and a half months of the year, I am one of the individuals who was put on the secondary list.

I feel that if I should be on the secondary list, then there are others who should be on this list as well, but presently are not on the list.

When I expressed my feelings to the Roads Committee, I was told that any complaints that I have should be expressed in writing and directed to the Roads Committee. Therefore, I wrote a letter on May 23rd and another letter on June 12.

On June 20th I got a reply acknowledging both letters but I still got no answers to any of my questions. I also understand that my June 12th letter has still not been read to the Roads Committee as of this date.

I was also invited, and attended, a Roads Committee meeting in Haliburton on August 12th at which two officials stated that I should never have been on the secondary list. To the best of my knowledge I am still on that list to this date.

I would also like to point out that another individual on the secondary list had truck work for the county nearly all summer.

I wonder, when they make these policies, if they are just made for some individuals or for everyone.

Disposing of toxic wastes

- by John Eakins, MPP -

In 1983, the Ministry of the Environment permitted seven public landfills in Ontario to legally accept liquid industrial wastes. These sites were in Barrie, Brantford, Guelph, Paris, Welland, Hamilton and the Tricil facility in Corunna.

It's interesting to note that in 1980, some 23 sites in Ontario were accepting wastes for landfilling.

During the past twenty years millions of gallons of highly toxic wastes were illegally dumped in small landfill sites throughout Ontario. Many of these landfills have now been closed and capped with clean soil and seeded grass. Some are still open, but now only receive relatively harmless domestic wastes.

The fact is, however, that over eight hundred abandoned garbage dumps have been identified in Ontario, some of which contain liquid industrial wastes which are now migrating into groundwater drinking supplies.

Landfills which no longer receive liquid wastes, but which did so in the past and now pose serious health hazards to the adjoining communities are: Eric Pauze, Perkinsfield (4 wells contaminated); Waste Management Inc. Stouffville (14 wells contaminated); and WMI, Aurora (8 wells contaminated).

Plumes of contaminated groundwater are migrating off each of these landfills and have contaminated the drinking water of a number of homes in the vicinity.

In addition to the municipal landfills, there are more than fifty private and industrial disposal sites which received liquid industrial wastes. These include Dow Chemical and Polysar in Sarnia; Robson Lang Tannery, Oshawa; DHI Ltd., Streetsville, Canada Printing Ink, Burlington; and Beardmore Tannery, Acton.

Tricil Ltd. operates Ontario's largest chemical waste incinerator and the province's only publicly-accessible secure landfill - that is a landfill located in deep clay soil which inhibits liquid wastes from leaching down into the groundwater. This landfill receives over half of the liquid industrial wastes disposed of in landfills. Tricil's incinerator burned over twelve million gallons of liquid industrial wastes last year. In total, Tricil received 15 million gallons of wastes in 1983, representing 21 per cent of the total hauled liquid industrial wastes generated that year.

In addition to the wastes which are sent to the landfills, incinerators and water treatment plants, thirteen million gallons were reclaimed and reused by industry. Eight million gallons were sent to waste transfer stations for resale to other users, and 7.6 million gallons were shipped out of the province, primarily to the United States and Quebec.

More on this topic next week, including Ontario Liberal Party policy recommendations for dealing with this serious problem of the disposal of liquid industrial wastes.

New library, municipal office for Bicroft

Close to 200 people were on hand on Saturday afternoon for the official opening of the Cardiff Municipal Building and Library.

The colourful ceremony began with a parade from the Community Centre led by Town Crier Christopher Burton and piper Paul Speers.

Members of the Cardiff Scouts, Cubs, Guides and Brownies formed an honour guard for the Municipal Councillors and visiting dignitaries.

Bicroft Reeve Bill Howe, chairman of the County Library System, welcomed the visitors and townspeople and offered congratulations to the people who had been instrumental in the establishment of the new facility.

Among the people present at the ceremony were members of the County Council, representatives of the County Library System, members of the Cardiff Library Board, representatives of the Ministry of Municipal Affairs and Victoria-Haliburton MPP, John Eakins.

In his speech to the gathering, Bill Howe noted that Cardiff is the newest community in Haliburton County having been founded just over 20 years ago when the Bicroft Uranium Mine was opened. He explained that there is a wide cross-section of people in the community who require many different needs and services and the municipality faced a dilemma in trying to meet those needs.

"People in charge of municipal affairs must meet these challenges," he said.

He added, "Our youth is such an important resource and we must set examples for them to follow."

The facility which Howe described as being second to none in the county, was a Bicentennial project funded by provincial and federal contributions.

The first library in Cardiff was located in a room in the Cardiff Elementary School, then moved to a trailer.

Howe noted that although the Township of Cardiff has the smallest population of any township in Haliburton, the number of transactions that take place each year in the library is the second highest in the County Library System.

Following the dedication of the building by Rev. Clive Wilson, Bill Howe cut the ribbon to mark the official opening of the library and municipal office.

After a tour of the facility, a reception was held at the Cardiff Community Centre.

Flanked by an honour guard of scouts, guides, cubs and brownies, representatives of three levels of government assist in the ribbon cutting ceremony to mark the official opening of the Bicroft Municipal Office and Library. Participating in the ceremony are: from the left, Bicroft councillor John Todd, County Warden Lyle McKnight, Bicroft Reeve Bill Howe, Victoria-Haliburton MPP John Eakins, and Bicroft councillor Ainsley Dickenson.

The yellow and green

If, as I have heard, babies are found under cabbage leaves, then where, for heaven's sakes, does one find cabbage patch dolls? Under people, perhaps?

It is a question that has bothered many parents over the past year or more, our family among them.

We resisted the temptation to be swept up in all the hysteria surrounding the homely little creatures last Christmas. Scenes of skirmishes in the toy departments of North America, as sharp-elbowed shoppers engaged in hand to hand combat were enough to deter me. First, I didn't feel my commando skills were equal to those being displayed by the shoppers with the steely glints in their eyes. Second I am one of those who feels rather noble, perhaps slightly superior, to be able to resist a fad, to not follow the crowd, to not be swept up in a tidal wave of rampant consumerism, simply because everyone else was. Third, I really did believe that once the Christmas crush had passed, and the market was flooded with millions of the dimpled darlings, all the fuss over Cabbage Patch Kids would fade into oblivion to take its place next to the hula hoop, skate boards and Davey Crockett coon skin caps.

Alas, the third and most promising option has not come to pass. Our daughter has not lost her interest in the dolls. As the year progressed, she saved her allowance and earned extra income (don't tell Revenue Canada) with the sole purpose of purchasing her very own Cabbage Patch Kid.

We applied at the local Stedmans Store and were placed on their very long list of families who were also eager to adopt one. I didn't mind waiting but my daughter was not as patient. Regular checks at the store showed they were having as much trouble as the rest of us in getting their hands on the dolls.

Now, I'm not one of those economic anarchists who always shops out of town, but this case required, what I can only describe as, extreme measures. As it happened, we had planned to spend the weekend in Toronto and thought it would also be propitious to visit one of the larger department stores downtown to break this Cabbage Patch impasse.

You would think that in those giant stores with hundreds of floors, escalators and staff of at least 50, they'd have an entire section loaded floor to ceiling with the latest toy item in North America. Alas, it was not to be so. From Simpsons we trudged to Eatons, to the Bay to toy shops big and toy shops small, nowhere was there a Cabbage

Patch doll to be found for sale (there were seemingly millions draped over the arms of little girls, but none behind the counter.)

How can this be, we wondered aloud. The clerk in Eaton's was pleased to explain. It seems each day, early in the morning before the city has awakened, a shipment of Cabbage Patch dolls is slipped in the back door (no doubt escorted by burly security guards) and placed on the shelves before the public is allowed in. It seems that barely five minutes after the doors open each day, the shelves are bare, stripped of the coveted prize. Presumably, for the protection of staff and shoppers no restocking takes place until the next business day. In other words, if you don't have a Cabbage Patch doll under your arm by 9:15 or 9:30 a.m., it's unlikely you'll get your hands on one.

So we returned home thwarted in our task. Having visited hundreds, possibly thousands of toy departments and stores during the weekend, I don't mind coming home empty handed, although my daughter would surely disagree. I say that because I've seen what's lurking out there waiting for the proud owners of Cabbage Patch dolls. Yes, I've seen the hair setting and dryer kit, the personalized place settings, the clothes, the Cabbage Patch toys, the strollers, the games, the books, the Cabbage Patch playhouses, yes even diapers especially for Cabbage Patch Kids. There is a veritable avalanche of Cabbage Patch paraphernalia waiting for the next Christmas to roll around. Having seen the future (it's green and yellow), I don't mind waiting just a little bit longer.

In Autumn, never pick the most beautiful vine in the woods because it's poison ivy.

Those who expect poison ivy to have an ominous appearance must be the most frequent victims of poison ivy. For rhus toxicodendron at all seasons is among the more beautiful plants. At this season, the glistening green leaves of summer turn to flaming scarlet. Flower arrangers seeking wild native material sometimes do not realize the nature of their finest creation until a day later.

Poison ivy is among those plants whose wants are few. It can flourish on the thinnest soil and grow in wetlands or uplands. It can climb a corn stalk, tangle a thicket, wind up a tree trunk — or grow upright without support in an open pasture.

There are many simple descriptions for the identification of poison ivy leaves, but none is very dependable. The leaves are too variable and the growth forms, since they range from vines to small shrubs, are too unpredictable for easy cataloguing.

The best advice is summed up in an old country rhyme: "leaves three; leave it be."

Ordinarily, if not always, the poison leaf comes in three parts — or three leaves, as we commonly describe it.

Personal reactions to poison ivy seem even more variable than the plant's form. Some persons seem impervious to it. Other persons are so sensitive that they break out in blisters after touching a door handle that has brushed against a poison ivy leaf when a car was driven down a country lane.

Poison ivy remains poisonous even after its leaves are gone, for the poison resides in the sap and is present in the woody sections of the vine. A few mysterious ivy poisoning cases in winter have been traced to the burning of a vine-wrapped log in a fireplace.

A fun opportunity to experiment and train your hand and eye to a new approach. The workshop will run from September 19 to 21. Participants are invited to attend a wine and cheese party Wednesday evening at the Gallery, and the opening of the Jean Chalmers show at the gallery on Friday evening.

Your Chamber of Commerce now has a special membership for artists and crafts persons - $30 yearly membership fee entitles you to a full membership in the Chamber of Commerce.

This is our way of encouraging our many talented artists who live and work in Haliburton County. Slows for dog cars collide

A driver who slowed to allow a dog to cross Highway 121 found herself involved in an accident September 12. Geraldine Luckman of Scarborough was travelling east of Ingoldsby when the animal darted out from the side of the road. As she slowed to let the dog cross, a second vehicle, driven by Wilfred Legerton of Scarborough collided with the rear of her car. The Luckman car sustained $400 damage while the Legerton car had $3500 in damages.

Legerton has been charged with following too close.

The matter was investigated by Constable Dave McMartin.

Collision

A driver has been charged with making an unsafe turn following a collision on Highway 35 in Minden on September 12. Mabel Brannigan of Minden was southbound on the highway when a second southbound driver, Charles Sawyer of Haliburton, attempted a left hand turn from the curb lane and collided with the Brannigan vehicle.

Damage to the Brannigan vehicle was estimated at $1500 while the Sawyer truck sustained $1000 damage.

Sawyer has been charged in the incident.

Another year for Home Support Services

"Growing old has a terrible reputation in our society, but seldom do we consider the upside. This includes freedom from boring jobs, freedom to pursue our interests, freedom to enjoy your grandchildren without the responsibilities of parenthood and having the advantage of being able to enjoy the finished product that you have worked on all your life."

Those comments were made by Sharon Chapman-Sheehan the keynote speaker at the annual meeting of the Haliburton County Home Support Services held at the Haliburton Legion hall on Friday, September 14.

The meeting was attended by 170 people including the Warden of Haliburton County Lyle McKnight, the Reeves of five local municipalities, representatives from various service groups and Victoria-Haliburton M.P. Bill Scott.

The speaker, a social worker with the Peterborough Family Counselling Service, praised the directors and volunteers of the Home Support organization. "You people, like no others, are involved in your community at the grass roots level," she said, adding, "The energy of the people of Haliburton County is surpassed only by their enthusiasm."

In comparing the services offered in this area to similar programs in Peterborough County, Chapman-Sheehan noted that services in Peterborough were carried out by four different organizations that were not sufficiently co-ordinated whereas, the program in Haliburton County more than surpassed these requisites.

County Warden Lyle McKnight supported these comments in his address to the gathering noting that "if the county and the municipalities were able to organize as well as the Home Support Services, they would be able to govern much better."

Then, addressing Bill Scott, he said that he hoped that the new federal government would also be able to organize as well as the Home Support agency.

The Autumn newsletter, that was distributed to everyone who attended the meeting, gave an indication that a high degree of organization had contributed to the success of the Home Support agency but also underlined the importance of the contributions made by a large number of volunteers from throughout the county.

For instance, the Meals on Wheels program in the Minden area involves 38 volunteer drivers who deliver meals prepared at Hyland Crest Senior Citizen's Home to an average of ten recipients each week. Volunteer drivers have also been available to transport seniors on local trips and visits to areas outside of the county. During the past year, 120 volunteers have made 310 local trips and 58 out-of-town trips.

In addition to the regular programs that are offered by the agency, many special activities and workshops have been conducted during the past year including boat cruises, the Ontario Senior Games, first aid courses and workshops on home repairs, "Money Matters", "Healthy Lifestyles" and Income Tax assistance.

As one speaker at the meeting pointed out, "It is nice to see so many junior seniors helping senior seniors."

The agency receives 50% of the funds required for the programs from the Ministry of Community and Social Services. The remainder of the funding is provided by the federal government, the Municipality of Dysart et al, County Council and Labatts Limited.

Since much of the financial assistance is offered on a temporary basis, the agency, and in particular the executive and directorate, will continue to seek all available sources of funding.

On Friday, the new members of the executive and board of directors were elected. Former first vice president Victoria Agnew was elected president of the executive taking over from Elsie Bursey.

Bessie Burke was elected First Vice President and Gloria Lemieux was re-elected second vice president. The new secretary is Gwen Hughes. Aileen Robertson will continue as the treasurer.

The newly elected board of directors is made up of 22 people representing all areas of the county.

The Haliburton County Home Support Services has been created to enable the elderly and handicapped persons to remain in their homes for a longer period of time and to create in the community, an awareness of the process of aging and the needs of the elderly.

There is ample evidence that the agency has been successful in attaining these goals.

As Bill Scott pointed out, the agency is particularly important in Haliburton County since nearly 20% of the population is aged 65 or older. This figure is double the national average.

Redmen lose season opener

The Haliburton Highlands Secondary School Redmen have opened the 1984 football season on a losing note. Both the junior and senior teams were defeated Friday afternoon when they travelled to Lindsay to take on their counterparts from I.E. Weldon Secondary School.

The senior game proved to be a defensive contest with the host club claiming the victory on a 1-0 score.

The first half of the game saw both teams move the ball well but they stayed within the confines of centre field, never coming close enough to score.

The Redmen were caught off guard in the third quarter however, as Weldon scored a single point on a quick kick. The play came in the second down.

The HHSS team had its best possibility to score in the fourth quarter when they moved the ball into Weldon territory. However a bad snap, and the scramble to recover the ball, brought the play back to the Haliburton 25 yard line. The Weldon team made a strong effort to score before the end of the game, however the Redmen were able to hold back the attack in a valiant goal line stand.

The Redmen controlled the ball for the remainder of the game but were unable to score the needed points to win the game.

Coach Gary Brohman singled out a number of defensemen for their outstanding play during the game. They included Paul Allore, Terry Hobden, Rob MacLeod, Mike MacNaull and Mike Blake.

Juniors shut out

The juniors were shut out by their hosts, losing 13-0.

Weldon picked up a field goal in the first quarter, two points in the second quarter and a touchdown in the final minutes of the game to ensure the win.

The juniors had their best chance in the second quarter of the game when they came within scoring distance of the goal line. However, a fumble reversed the play and the Redmen lost their opportunity to score.

Kevin Barnhart, Brad Archer, Ian Cooper and Ken Kreller turned in noteworthy performances for the Redmen defensive team.

Coach Brohman noted, "We had good chances in both games, but just weren't able to capitalize on the situations." He said that by reducing the turnovers, the teams should be able to come up on the winning side of the scoreboard.

Both teams play this Friday in Fenelon Falls.

Soccer teams win/lose

Chris LaPorte scored two goals to lead the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School senior soccer team to a 5-1 victory over I.E.

Weldon School Wednesday in Haliburton.

Chris opened the scoring for the team with a goal in the first half. A second marker was notched by Falk Fleugel. The only Weldon goal came as the first half was ending.

The Redmen added three more goals in the second half with Ken Barry, Dennis McKee scoring, along with the second goal from LaPorte.

Jeff Howe, in centre forward position, was responsible for setting up three of the Redmen goals and narrowly missed notching two for himself when the ball struck the goalpost.

In the junior game, the Redmen were defeated 4-1. The only Haliburton goal was scored by Francis Pelletier.

Both teams are at home today (September 19) when they meet Lindsay Collegiate Institute on the field beside the high school.

Trent-Severn news

The Haliburton Lakes declined to reach an average of 62.9% by September 10, which was 7% above the average for the years 1970-79. This was 17% higher than on the same date in 1983.

The early drawdown of three lakes with shallow Lake Trout spawning is underway to get these lakes (Kushog, Big Bob, Little Bob) down before the egg deposition begins, often by the first week of October. One stoplog is reinserted in each dam at the time of spawning to cause these lakes to stay at least as high as during egg deposition.

One other lake level drawdown has been altered this autumn for reconstruction of the concrete dam level. Percy Lake has been held higher than the average of the others for a few weeks to enable construction materials to be barged to it by water since there is no road access. Now that most materials are in place, the lake will be lowered quite rapidly to facilitate the concrete chipping and pouring operations before the weather gets too cold.

The rest of the lakes' drawdown will follow a decline rate faster than the normal until interrupted by wet weather or the normal levels are reached.

Kawartha Lakes levels too have been run down some in spite of wet weather, in case even more rain is in the offing. This will hopefully prevent excessive flows from disrupting navigation and make it possible to avoid disruption of the Dam No. 12 replacement construction occurring on the Trent River near Campbellford.

Lake Simcoe-Couchiching has not responded dramatically to the wet weather, but is still running about 3 or 4 cm above the rule curve level for the time of year. Larger than average flows are being run on the Severn River however.

Townships of Anson, Hindon and Minden

In view of the recent controversy concerning Central Mortgage and Housing's Rural and Native Housing Program Council has arranged for the Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation representatives to attend a meeting on Thursday, September 27th, 1984 in the Municipal Council chambers. The meeting will begin at 7:00 p.m. and is intended to clarify some of the misunderstandings regarding the program. Everyone is invited to attend.

Clerk-Treasurer.

Craft conference starts today

Craftspeople and educators from across Canada will be gathering this week at Wig-A-Mog Inn to participate in a crafts conference and educational meeting.

The Haliburton Highlands Guild of Fine Arts will be co-hosting the Tenth Annual Canadian Craft Council Conference in conjunction with the "Education 2000" meeting being presented by Sir Sandford Fleming College's School of Fine Arts.

The activities will begin on Wednesday, September 19 with a pre-conference workshop conducted by fashion designer Marilyn Brooks.

The "Collage" workshops will be conducted for three days and will culminate in a finale on Friday afternoon.

The workshops will examine the relationship between crafts, fashion and fashion accessories in the modern market.

On Thursday the two day Crafts Education meeting will begin. Some of the topics to be discussed include the influence of high technology, an assessment of the qualifications and skills required of the future craftspeople and the types of educational programs required to produce future craftspeople.

Charles Pascal, SSFC president, says that "through this gathering of distinguished people from both arts and technology, we are exploring the potential of the College to contribute in a meaningful way, to the future of the arts, craftspeople and the relationships between arts and technology."

On Friday evening at 5:30, the Guild of Fine Arts and the Ontario Crafts Council will be presenting the opening of the Jean A. Chalmers Bicentennial Collection at the Rails' End Gallery. The exhibition will be officially opened by Margaret Birch, MPP and Parliamentary Assistant to Premier William Davis.

Following the opening there will be a buffet dinner at Wig-A-Mog Inn and a performance by the Guild Choir.

On Saturday morning, Walter Pitman, Executive Director of the Ontario Arts Council will be delivering the keynote address to the Crafts Conference.

On Saturday afternoon, seven different seminars will take place. The four hour seminars will be conducted by various artists, craftspeople, an architect and a museum director.

The seminars will deal with the role of crafts in the contemporary society, preservations of the past, future trends, marketing and the integration of the arts and technology.

The conference will end on Sunday after a panel discussion on "Making the Case for Craft."

This will be an important conference for the Canadian Crafts Council, now beginning its second decade, and for the craftspeople who will be attending.

The seminars, workshops and social gatherings should have a profound impact on the future of traditional art forms in a society that is being increasingly affected by advances in modern technology.

The conference and educational meeting will also provide recognition in the Canadian craft community for the Haliburton Highlands Guild of Fine Arts and the Rails' End Gallery.

Two drown

Police report that two drownings have taken place in the Highlands during the past week.

The authorities recovered the body of Alice Margaret Linstead, 74, of North Colborne, Ontario, September 11 in Horseshoe Lake. According to the police the woman was reported missing on the morning of September 10 from her cottage on the lake.

After an extensive ground search of the area failed to turn up any trace of the woman, the police turned their attention to the water. Divers from the Minden and Lindsay detachments were called in but failed to locate the missing woman last Monday. Her body was finally located by spotters in an OPP helicopter.

The matter was investigated by Constables Bob Pearson and Al Bibby.

The second drowning occurred Wednesday on Kushog Lake.

Gwendolynne Annis, 56, of Agincourt, drowned while apparently working on the water line near her cottage. According to police, she was found by her husband Donald, floating in the lake. Attempts to revive the woman failed and she was pronounced dead at the Minden Hospital.

The investigating officers were Corporal Ron Foran and Constable Bill Clendenning. The coroner was Dr. Antony Holliday-Rhodes.

C.H.A.C.E. Place news

September is a time for back-to-school, for new beginnings. Perhaps there are some people who are not familiar with C.H.A.C.E.; this might be a good time to explain who and what we are.

C.H.A.C.E. is many things to many people - for children it can be a place to experiment with new toys, books, and materials, meet friends, enjoy special events etc. For parents it can be an opportunity to play with their children away from the pressures of housework and home projects, experience new craft ideas, explore the many books and periodicals available, meet friends, etc. For others it is an equipment rental service for a visiting baby or other temporary need. Probably there are as many reasons for visiting C.H.A.C.E. as there are visitors - and anyone is welcome to visit C.H.A.C.E. anytime. This still comes as a surprise to some people, that as a place to play, read, talk, meet, do crafts, have your lunch, C.H.A.C.E. is absolutely free of charge to the user.

We do offer memberships for those who wish to support C.H.A.C.E. financially. Memberships are $12 per family for the fiscal year, April 1 to March 31, although this amount is adjustable for new memberships taken out at other times of the year. Members are entitled to sign out books and toys from our library and to receive our quarterly newsletter (which is now available at C.H.A.C.E. - members please pick up your copy.)

Board meetings are generally held on the second Thursday of each month at C.H.A.C.E., and any user may attend and take part in the discussions. Registered users - those who visit C.H.A.C.E. regularly over at least six months - as well as members may vote at the annual general meeting and anyone may attend.

We hope that all users feel free to participate in as many aspects of the life of C.H.A.C.E. as possible, especially sharing ideas and suggestions. One of our aims is to promote growth in ourselves and our children - surely we can all learn from each other in a spirit of co-operation.

If you are already familiar with C.H.A.C.E., why not bring that new neighbour or friend, drop in and enjoy the friendly atmosphere anytime Monday to Friday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. or Saturday, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and find out also about our many special events and workshops.

Housing for seniors

by Donna Bailey

Dr. Miriam Hutton, Professor of Social Work at the University of Manitoba, who was recently in our office to find out about our Home Support Services (see August 15, 1984 news) also expressed her personal view of Housing for seniors from her experience in this field.

Housing for seniors in Winnipeg is a major project run by the Winnipeg Regional Housing Authority, funded by CHMC with the support by the Provincial and Municipal governments and volunteer organizations. Special services are available but vary from unit to unit. For example, one might have a restaurant where people are able to have inexpensive meals served to them by people who are in a rehabilitation program. Another type offers a day care program where people can come in. Some units have additional services such as attendants for the handicapped.

Ideally, Dr. Hutton would like to see a whole range of different kinds of housing for seniors. Everything from grandmother apartments in family homes to multiple units in new buildings. She thinks modifying existing houses in small towns and villages makes sense so that you keep people in touch with the community around them. She feels that seniors should be as close as possible to other age groups and that buildings should not be placed out of town. An organization, for example, could buy houses available and remodel and/or modify them for seniors. Modifications such as: handrails, washrooms on ground level, efficient furnaces or duplexes where seniors live in part and rent part should be employed. Maintenance could be co-ordinated from a central organization. Different people could be responsible for different aspects of maintenance. The benefit is that it would keep existing houses in better shape and keep seniors in the middle of the community and they could also walk to activities and be in closer contact with people. If maintenance was removed, seniors would have more energy to participate in common activities. She is not opposed to having senior citizen's housing, we badly need it; but many seniors want to keep in close contact with people from other age groups.

The physical environment is much more important to people than is recognized. e.g. attractive wood furnishings, plants, light painted walls are all important to our outlook. That was one of the reasons she was so impressed with our facilities. She felt it must give the seniors a real lift to come here.

We thank Dr. Hutton for taking the time to share with us the information concerning Home Support Services in her province and her thoughts about senior housing. I, personally, enjoyed the time we shared information very much and I hope that the next time she is here she will come into our Home Support office for a visit.

Did you know?

by Bambi Gilder

Drivers - beware those flashing red lights on school buses...because this year they'll be more visible as a result of a recent amendment to the Highway Traffic Act.

Buses will now be permitted to activate their flashing red signal lights and stop arms while carrying passengers under the age of 18 for any sports or recreational purposes as well.

Drivers will be required to observe the same rules applying to all school buses: stop 20 metres behind a stationary school bus of upon meeting it when travelling on the opposite side of a highway not divided by a physical median.

Penalties for ignoring the safety warnings will carry a fine of $100 to $500 for a first offence of $250-$1000 for subsequent offences - which also carry the threat of a jail term of up to six months.

This is not something that should be taken lightly. A child's life depends on the fact that you know and obey this law. The Haliburton County Information Centre is here for people of all ages. If you have a question you would like answered, why not drop in or give us a call at 457-2733. We are located in the Drag River Municipal Building in Haliburton and are open from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. And remember, you will never know the answer until you ask the question.

Obituary

Al Barron

Mr. Al Barron died suddenly Monday, August 27, after being rushed to the Ross Memorial Hospital in Lindsay.

Having been a long-time active resident of Minden, Mr. Barron will be sadly missed. He had been born 1911 in Stratford, Ontario, the son of Evelyn and Henry Barron.

Al grew up in Cambridge and Dundas. He served a machinist apprenticeship with John Bertram & Son, Dundas. In 1932 he moved to Minden.

Here he clerked in the store of the late E.A. Rogers before joining the Orillia Water, Light and Power Commission. He remained with the Commission until his retirement in 1976, having served in Minden, Mathiasville, Swift Rapids and in Orillia.

Mr. Barron was active in the Minden United Church, having been in the choir, a member of the Board of Stewards and an Elder. He served in the Minden Red Cross and conducted the swimming and water safety programme for a number of years.

senior league

by Bert Harrison

Well readers, another busy week around this place. I will try to tell you if they let me have some space. This item was missed last week, we would just like to say, Doris Robertson took off to visit her son Ian on this last day of August at North Bay.

Quite a few relatives come in here all the time. My brother-in-law Morris Windsor came Saturday and dined with me. Our son Roger and wife came too for a few minutes when they were passing through. Mrs. Stutt's daughter Ruth came and took her mother for a ride, up to Carnarvon and around the countryside.

In the chapel service Sunday night, bless their hearts, we had the Thompsons back to take their parts. In the book of John, Chapter 9, Rev. Burgess took this interesting message, "Jesus opening the eyes of the man who was born blind."

Most of our office staff, as well as Mark Schell, have gone to a Senior Citizen's convention in Toronto. Where it's being held we really don't know. We have someone back with us who we are really glad to see, after surgery once again, is Helen Lee.

Ada Shorter's children came, as quiet as a mouse, and took their mother over for lunch in their town house.

Robert MacBrien of Minden Gospel Church, conducted a very impressive service on this 11th of September day. We thank you for coming. Maron Rose came the music to play.

Mrs. Eastman had a birthday, the count is 95. Although she is blind she is a gracious lady and very much alive.

We were pleased to have Gala Heal and her sister Evelyn come to call. Gala and her husband are going south for the winter some time in early fall.

Lily Hogg had relatives too come to call. Congratulations to William Moore, we would like to say, who had a birthday this September 11th day. September is a great month for birthdays. Congratulations again to Frank Billings on his 90th birthday.

Wednesday night our musicians came, Cathy from the Frost Centre, Earl Cooper and wife from Green Lake. They entertained us royally and sure have what it takes.

A note from Heather Bowron from Colorado Springs, she says she is doing fine. She tells me how to keep the nurses all in line.

Thursday afternoon the ladies of the auxiliary of the Kinmount Legion came over to Hyland Crest. They brought along a lovely lunch and were our special guests. Different groups come in each week and serve delicious food. Not that we don't get enough to eat, but a change is really good.

Our staff members have returned from the Senior Citizen's convention. They learned two or three things that we would like to mention. They told them something that we really didn't miss. They say that they should love the residents more, so we have been getting kissed.

The bingo games are starting again here at Hyland Crest. Thursday night Steven and Craig Crowe came to call the numbers and put on a real good show. Lily Hogg says "Three cheers," she won a bing, the first in many years.

After a month's rest, Grace Coburn has come back this September 14th day, to lead us in a sing song. Fred Ballard came the music to play. It's so good to have them back again, to have this pleasant hour together. This is something we can do no matter what the weather.

Our entertainers came Friday night. Payne, Deacon and Burch always come when they say - never leave us in the lurch. They sing and play fine music. Don is really sharp, playing his harmonica and jews-harp.

For every man 85 years of age, there are seven women. But it's too late then!

An epicure dining at Crewe Found a very large mouse in his stew, Said the waiter, "Don't shout And wave it about, Or the rest will be wanting one too!"

Mowing your lawn is a lot cheaper than joining a health club.

Toronto's gain is Minden's loss. We were very sorry to hear that Yvonne Beaucage, well known for her contribution to arts and crafts in this area, has moved to Toronto. She will be sorely missed by all her friends here. We wish her all the very best for the future and hope to hear how things are in the "Big City" Yvonne.

Our very best wishes for a speedy recovery to our friend Yvonne Guida who is in hospital at present. We hope you will soon be back home, fit and well and submitting your poems again.

The Archie Stouffer Home and School Association presents its Annual Meet the Teachers Night at the Minden Library-Cultural Centre on Wednesday, September 26 from 8 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Refreshments will be served and everyone is welcome.

Two poems this week - one from our northern correspondent, Mrs. Gwyneth Shirley (mother of our 'star' reporter) and the other from a talented local poet, Mrs. Florence Robinson.

A Mother's Thoughts

"I wonder what they're doing now?" I say ten times a day.
I'm really lost without her when our daughter is away.
When they are home I 'phone a lot
And say "What's new out there?"
But when they leave on holidays, I wonder "now who cares?"
I think of busy highways
And hope they are alright.
Maybe when they are safe at home I'll be able to sleep at night,
So I leave them in the Lord's care
And hope He understands,
What it means to be a Mother,
In this busy, hectic land.

Florence Robinson

Closing the Cottage

The russet leaves are falling fast
And silver birches shiver.
The fireweed has shed its seeds
Crisp ferns turn brown and wither
Sweet memories of warm, bright days
Rush back as I survey
This summer place where children played,
Oh, was it yesterday?
Old Tom nails shutters into place,
To keep intruders out.
He sees me sitting pensive here
And gives a friendly shout.
An angry squirrel swings aloft
Among the tall pine trees,
And follows up each hammer blow
With shrill obscenities.
A chipmunk, spoils all summer long
Peers at me from a rock,
Then stuffs his cheeks with frenzied speed
And runs to check his stock.
A poet once wrote "If winter comes,
Can spring be far behind?"
But when we have to wait 'til May
His questions seem unkind!
One leaf drifts slowly down and lands
On a discarded chair,
Which never would stay up and now
In vain awaits repair.
One last look round, a wistful sigh
Before I close the door.
This vast Northland will still survive
When we are here no more.

Gwyneth M. Shirley.
